12 - 1			12.30-2pm Is Bart Simpson an Anarchist? (Bristol Anarchist Federation) We felt some of Bart Simpson's calculations on this year's bookfair poster were at best debatable and at worst problematic. Does Work minus Bosses, or Money minus Bankers really equal anarchy? What do we mean by the term "Work" anyway? And can money really have a role in an Anarchist society?	Theatre of the Oppressed taster Migration is human, border controls are not inevitable. They cause violence and affect all of us, to different degrees. We will work with some theatre tools – sound, image and word and experiment to see if we can gain ground in the battle of the story on migration.	Social control of the poor (Bristol Claimants Union) A discussion of the control of the poor through debt, means testing and guilt for the benefit of the rich. From past to present the names may change from the Speenhamland System to Tax Credits, but the approach never does.	The Free Festival Movement in the 1970s (Wally Dean) From the heyday of the anarchic free festival movement and its oppression during the Thatcher years through to the continuing struggle to free Stonehenge today.
1 - 2	Alternatives to Prison in the South West (Bristol Anarchist Black Cross) This workshop looks at how we can get people out of prison, keep them out and prevent new people going in while we dismantle the prison system and build alternatives to cages.	The lessons of the 3 Cosas campaign The story of how precarious, mostly migrant outsourced workers at University of London got organised and fought back, in conflict with their employer, the university management, the police and the bureaucracy of Unison.		State repression in Spain (Bristol Solidarity Federation) Last November thirty workers were arrested due to participation in an education strike. The increase of detentions and laws against protests show the government wants people to keep quiet while they dismantle basic civil rights and attack their live conditions.	Set up your own community growing group (Permanent Culture Now) Steve has turned a tennis court into a growing project, set-up Bolton Urban Growers and two allotments. Learn how to start an urban permaculture group, get people involved and make yourself visible to partners and funders.	The Fair Fight – Female Boxers in 18thC Bristol (Anna Freeman) Anna will treat us to a foretaste of forthcoming The Fair Fight described as 'a pulsating historical novel set within the world of female pugilists and their patrons in late eighteenth-century Bristol'
2 - 3	Bitcoin for Activists Bitcoin and crypto-currencies are big news. But what do they have to offer anarchists and activists? This workshop will provide a basic introduction to bitcoin and how its features can be used to our advantage as an economic tool and a subversive unregulated alternative to the current financial system.	Rules without Rulers: Possibilities and Limits of Anarchism	2.30-4pm Solidarity in Bristol (Bristol Solidarity Network, Acorn Bristol, IWW, Bristol Sol Fed, Bristol AFed, Bristol Refugee Rights) Solidarity is a central idea which we organise round but how does it work in practice - especially across social and political differences? People actively showing solidarity with workers, migrants, claimants, and local and international struggles discuss what has been productive and challenging in their solidarity work.	Subverting NGOs and trade unions to create radical change Many anarchists work for unions, NGOs and charities. What if we could subvert these organisations rather than buying into their agenda. Liam Barrington-Bush has spent 4 years experimenting with politics in the workplace and wrote a book called Anarchists in the Boardroom .	Local Food Campaigns Come along and hear from Bristol's own food campaigners, producers and activists from Trinity Community Garden, Barton Hill Walled Garden, Sims Hill Shared Harvest, Bristol Incredible edible, Feed Bristol and the Blue Finger Alliance and learn how to get involved in a movement that is literally growing.	Eco-Anarchism, Architecture and Alternative Technology in the 70s Taking inspiration from Situationism and social ecology, 1970's anarchist collective Street Farm offered a powerful vision of green cities in the control of ordinary people. And find out who the Bristol Gnomes were.
3 - 4	Prism - the Dark Side of the Net (Hacktionlab) In June 2013 Edward Snowden revealed our worst fears: that our governments HAVE BEEN spying on us. This workshop looks at what it means for us, and what we can do to about it. Welcome to the Dark Side of the Net!	Futures – a novel by John Barker (PM Press) John Barker discusses his upcoming release – a novel set in 1987 London. Barker will be reading from the novel and discussing the finance industry, Thatchers' Britain, the world of drugs and organised crime and the various links to the City..		Bristol Sound System Networking (More Fire Sound System) discussion on getting Sounds Systems off the ground, putting on parties and issues relating to the free party scene in Bristol.	Transition &amp; Anarchism (Transition Network) Peter explains what the Transition Movement is and how it has grown from small beginnings in Totnes to a global movement of 1200 groups. Followed by a discussion on Transition and Anarchism, are they friends or opposing movements?	Britain's Asian Youth Movements (Anandi Ramamurthy) Black Star: Britain's Asian Youth Movement (Pluto, 2013) documents the Asian youth movements in 1970s and 80s Britain who, inspired by Black Power movements, struggled against the racism of the street and the state.
4 - 5	No workfare! No sanctions! (Boycott Workfare &amp; Bristol Claimants Union) Join us for a discussion on challenging workfare and benefit sanctions. We'll share information on the rights we have and discuss how to organise to enforce these rights at the Job Centre and bring about the end of workfare.	Why Men Against Patriarchy? An Introduction and Q&A with one of Bristol's newest groups. What is patriarchy and why should men challenge it? What do we talk about? Do men have a role in feminism? Why have meetings for men only? How can we confront patriarchy? What are our future plans? All genders welcome.	4.30-6pm Fracking- the new Climate Justice Frontline (Frac Free Bristol + Corporate Watch)	Anarchists, Religion and State How applicable today are attitudes to religion and state dating from revolutionary Russia or Spain? The two great evils to be destroyed or ignored! History can instruct us but can also make us force today's events into an out-dated narrative. Do these attitudes increase or limit our social influence?	Anarchism and the Commons (Tom Henfrey - Schumacher Institute for Sustainable Systems) Throughout history people have organised to negotiate access to and responsibility for resources held in common. Common property shows participatory governance in action – an alternative to both state and market.	4-5.30pm Skulkers and mutineers in WWI (Roger Ball/Colin Thomas) Find out how Blackadder could have been funnier and how Tommy and Fritz put their 'cunning plans' into action. Bristol dockers voted for Britain maintaining neutrality. When male ILP activists were sent to prison, women members continued to leaflet against the slaughter.
5 - 6	Workers Power in under an hour (Bristol IWW) Bristol IWW will run a tutorial on how to work together with your colleagues to challenge your boss and win better working conditions today and working class power tomorrow.	Opposing the 2014 NATO Summit In early September 2014, thousands of politicians, cops and businessmen, including 60 world "leaders", will descend on Newport, S.Wales, for a summit of NATO. We'll be there to try and stop them. Find out more about what's planned and how you can get involved.		North Morocco's migration crisis (Interzone Voices) The crisis faced by 10,000+ Sub-Saharan African migrants in Morocco is an under-reported atrocity committed by the EU against non-white people. Hear the testimony of migrants themselves to understand the racist and imperialist system Anarchists seek to destroy.	Bristol Indymedia has had a refit Find out how the new Indymedia site can help your group or what volunteer roles there are for people who want to get involved. If you have used it let us know what you think about the new site and what else we could be doing.	5.30-6.30pm Screening of Epiphany about the Fifth Monarchist (Suzy Gillet/Ian Bone) A documentary evoking the Mystics and Anarchists of the English Revolution that draws parallels with today's fight against the monarchy and City of London Corporation.
